

LONDON HEARS OF DESPERATE FIGHTING AT BELGIAN LINE

Official Report From Paris Says Allies Have Taken Offensive At Several Points and Progressed Against Solid German Bulwark

FRENCH EXPERTS FIGURE YPRES KEY TO SITUATION

Conviction Grows That Teutonic Strategic Offensive Is Nearing Close and That War Is About To Enter Upon Third Phase

LONDON, November 14.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Last night, according to a message received from the correspondent of the Central News with the Allies at the front in Belgium, the Germans lost the main advantage they had gained by their fighting of the past three days, being driven out of Dixmude, which town the French recaptured.

The position was subjected to a terrific shrapnel fire by the French artillery, under cover of which the French marines were enabled to approach the trenches and deliver a bayonet charge.

SHRAPNEL FIRE DESTRUCTIVE

The shrapnel fire was so severe it threatened to exterminate the Germans who were holding the position, and seeing that their position was untenable and that the death rate probably would be excessive if they remained to contest the bayonet attack, they retired.

An official report from Paris says that the Allies have taken the offensive along several parts of the Belgian line and have made progress south of Bixeschote. East of Ypres the British have taken one of the villages lost in the recent offensive of the Germans.

GERMAN AIRSHIPS DESTROYED

The destruction of a quartette of German aeroplanes at Ypres was reported yesterday. Two British and two French airmen pretended to attempt escape from the four Taubes and lured them, at a low altitude, over a concealed battery of the Allies. The shrapnel from the guns brought down the four Germans and their machines.

The British losses in the fighting on October 31 were announced yesterday as approximately 57,000 killed, wounded and prisoners. This is more than one man out of six of the entire British force at the front.

YPRES KEY TO SITUATION

The military experts of the French war office believe that the possession of Ypres is the key to the situation in the north and that so long as the Allies continue to hold that position the German advance to the coast is blocked. The experts declare that while they retain Ypres, the Germans cannot advance via La Bassée and Bethune. To advance over this route, it is held, is impossible since it would expose the right flank of the Germans to a serious danger from the Allies around Ypres.

ADVANCE WOULD BE MENACE

It is also held that if the Allies are able to advance from Ypres, they will immediately menace the left flank of this part of the German forces, and that the Germans would be compelled to evacuate Lille and abandon hope of reaching the coast.

The conviction grows that the German strategic offensive is nearing a close and that the war is about to enter its third phase

San Francisco's Bay and Land Approaches Need Further Fortifying, Says Senator-Elect

SAN FRANCISCO, November 14.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Senator-elect Phelan, addressing the members of the chamber of commerce last night, said that he intended to advocate the further fortifying of San Francisco Bay and the land approaches to the city.

San Francisco, he said, was in danger of an attack upon the Pacific Coast, the center of events.

After the capture of the Turkish auxiliary navy, he said, it is believed, will be left entirely without a garnison.

ON BOTH THE WESTERN AND EASTERN FRONTIERS

EARLY REVIEW OF SITUATION

An early announcement of the Belgian situation, officially given out at Paris, says:

"The fighting now is less violent from the River Lys to the sea. Several attempts of the Germans to debouch from Dixmude by the western outlet, toward Dunkirk, across the Yser, have been checked by the Allies. Generally speaking, the positions of the armies are unchanged, though during the last few foggy days we have slowly progressed. We are almost everywhere within from 300 to 500 meters of the enemy's wire entanglements in front of their positions."

ONE MILLION MORE MEN

Lord Kitchener, secretary for war, yesterday introduced in the commons as a government measure supplementary estimates for the raising of another million men for war. This will bring the total to 2,176,000, exclusive of the territorials.

GERMAN MARINES ACTIVE

"Our attacks on Ypres are progressing favorably. Another thousand prisoners have been taken there."

"Fierce attacks by the French east and west of Soissons have been repulsed and the enemy lost heavily in these encounters."

LITTLE SCHOONER BRINGS HARD LUCK STORY INTO PORT

Old Salt and Green Sailors Hunting Pearly Grounds Hit by Gales

WIFE OF ANGRY SKIPPER HAS AWFUL EXPERIENCE

Adventurous Party Goes Days Without Fresh Water and Has No Money

(From Saturday Advertiser.)

Suffering for the want of water and half-starved, with a green and inexperienced crew and a vessel which is fifty-eight years old, Captain George R. Frazer, accompanied by his wife and a crew of four adventurers, who claim to be seeking pearly grounds in South Pacific waters, arrived in this port yesterday on the little schooner Jedd.

The tale which Captain Frazer told after his arrival was a doleful one. The vessel, he said, left San Diego on September 21, and was forty-five days making the voyage across the Pacific.

On October 11, Captain Frazer ran into a gale, and it was then that he discovered that his crew was made up principally of "farmers" and "landmen" who had never sailed salt water before.

However, the storm was weathered, and fair weather was met with on October 21, when the vessel sailed on for the voyage across the Pacific.

It carried away some of the equipment of the crew, and for several days the little vessel was battered about and Captain Frazer did not see his bunk for forty-eight hours at a stretch.

To make matters worse the supply of fresh water aboard was bad and the members of the adventurous party suffered greatly from thirst.

The water was so bad that it was worse than the first one, and was run into it carried away some of the equipment of the crew, and for several days the little vessel was battered about and Captain Frazer did not see his bunk for forty-eight hours at a stretch.

MODERN RESORT IS BIG PROJECT

Architect Kerr Offers Kaneohe Bay Residence and Yacht For Tourist Purposes

With action taken yesterday by members of the Hawaii promotion committee, the Trail and Mountain club, the Ad club's tourist committee, and the Hawaii Tuna club there is every indication that the plan of A. L. MacKaye for an up-to-date resort for tourists, as well as for residents of Honolulu, will be carried out on the shores of beautiful Kaneohe bay. These plans were submitted at a meeting of the promotion committee yesterday and heartily endorsed.

Through the generosity of H. I. Kerr, the architect, his charming residence surrounded by five acres of land, his sailing yacht and the necessary equipment of the place have been placed at the disposal of Mr. MacKaye for a limited time to demonstrate the possibilities of providing a place where the tourist can find accommodations which they expect to find in Hawaii, such as bathing, good surf and still water, sailing, and canoeing, fishing and exploring.

Mr. MacKaye's plan is to build a modern resort on the shores of Kaneohe bay, which will be a place where the tourist can find accommodations which they expect to find in Hawaii, such as bathing, good surf and still water, sailing, and canoeing, fishing and exploring.

SLAVS SWARM EAST PRUSSIA AND TERRIFIC BATTLE BREWS

Russians Are Pouring Into Germany In Ever-Increasing Numbers, London Says, and Tremendous Conflict Is Developing

TEUTONS ARE RETREATING AND FIGHTING AS THEY GO

East Now Is Regarded As Center of Gravity of War, Main Purpose of Czar Being To Capture Danzig In His Advance

LONDON, November 14.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—East Prussia, into which the Russians are pouring in ever-increasing numbers, is now regarded as the center of gravity of the war. A tremendous battle is developing, the Russians on the offensive and the Germans falling back, fighting a series of rearguard actions and retarding the Slav avalanche until the defensive positions are reached and occupied.

SLAVS ARE ENVELOPING

The Russians are vigorously carrying out a great enveloping movement and the armies are engaged along a front one hundred and thirty miles from tip to tip of the great curve.

In Poland, the retreat of the German corps having been practically cut off, the invaders are desperately on the offensive, attempting to cut a way through the Slav columns which hem them in.

ADVANCE IS TERRIFIC

This activity south and west of the Warthe River is not being allowed to interfere with the main purpose of the Russians, which is now believed to include the capture of Danzig. The Russians are everywhere advancing in great force.

In the southern invasion of East Prussia, Petrograd reports officially that the German offensive was repulsed on both banks of the Vistula, where it crosses the border, the Germans falling back towards Ryfoln in Eastern Prussia.

VIENNA ADMITS EVACUATION

Vienna has officially admitted the Austrian evacuation of Eastern Galicia, but claims to have gained a signal victory over the Serbians, having crossed the Danube and driven back the defending army on the frontier.

In West Flanders, according to the military critics, the Germans do not seem to have improved their position through the recent desperate fighting.

There are sixteen million children attending schools, and 207,000 persons attending universities and colleges. The national expenditure for education alone amounts to 500 million dollars annually.

The number of libraries is steadily growing.

There are more than 22,000 newspapers and periodicals published in the United States.
